“ John and I met 25 years ago when he found out I had an interest in learning how to use a computer. Being the diligent teacher that he was, he wouldn't teach me windows until I learned DOS (original system used on the internet and computers). As we got to know and respect each other, our friendship blossomed and we became fast and true friends. It lasted thru many moves by both of us and redeveloped when he moved back to Memphis. We had so much in common and were so different I'm sure many people wondered why we were so close. John invited me to Dallas many times the last 2 years and I kept trying to make it down. I just couldn't work it out. John and Celisha came to Atlanta a couple of years ago and we hung out one day and night. She has been great in keeping me informed about everything and hopefully we will get together sometime soon. I will miss my chats online and on the phone with John and know hes not suffering anymore.. Herb Slate
