“ My memory was not so great. We were about 18, and at the Liberty Theater. Having a pleasant smiling conversation-- I thought. For no reason he hauled off and punched me in the ribs as hard as he could. I was shocked, and a bit of a wimp back then, I guess. I didn't retaliate. It hurt a lot, and I never forgot. I'm 89.

“ So sorry to here this. Royce was one of my favorite uncles growing up. Remember his store/station & the house next to it where he lived very well. I think of it as one of the first convenience stores. Had great times playing with my cousins there. What a great man who touched so many lives he will be missed.
